

Constraints limit your vision, but they are unavoidable in design

But if your vision is smaller than your constraints, you've limited yourself more than you need

